

HGO About us

Through many years, HGO has grown into a highly regarded opera training company.

What makes HGO stand out is the combination of high quality performances for the audience and excellent experience and training for the young cast. Singers, selected by audition, are students or graduates from the top music colleges. We appoint experienced and talented directors and conductors to create and to guide.

The youth of our performers brings a fresh immediacy to well-known roles. Youthful energy and the intimate venue draw you into the action, bringing opera to life in a way that grand opera houses often don't.

Providing opportunities for singers of the future, giving them the chance to perform major roles with orchestra and staging through several performances, is a great boost to their experience and exposure. It adds an extra exciting element for the audience. Are you hearing the next Pavarotti?

We need more financial support to continue to achieve these ambitions.

Hear from our Singers

"HGO's reputation has grown considerably over the last few years, attracting interest from opera critics and casting agents from many of the UK's top opera companies. I can't thank HGO enough for their support in my professional development."

"HGO's production teams are drawn from the professional operatic world, having worked in prestigious opera houses themselves, never fail to create exciting and imaginative productions for their singers."

"HGO offers a fantastic chance to develop as an opera performer: to improve one's stagecraft and musicianship; to perform with an orchestra; to experience the pacing of a full run of shows; to be seen in performance by critics and potential future employers; and much more."

HGO Finances

In keeping our prices down and our standards up, there is a deficit on each production. Without support from our FRIENDS and other donors, we could not keep going.

We could not bring high quality opera to the community of north London at reasonable ticket prices. We could not give experience and training to our wonderful young singers – who need such opportunity to help them to build their careers.

If you want to support these aims, you will want to become a FRIEND.
